SIGN 1952 HUNGARIAN-RUMANIAN CULTURAL AGREEMENT

A cultural cooperation agreement has been signed by Hungary and Rumania, drawing up a plan for cultural exchange in 1952. Already established scientific communication will be strengthened through an exchange of scientists and scientific reports, a Hungarian-Rumanian, Rumanian-Hungarian general dictionary will be written, educators will inspect each others' educational systems, and funds will be appropriated for exchange scholarships.

Both countries will publish books concerning the way of life and the fight for socialization in the other country, and translations of best works of fiction. Plays, operas, and ballets of each country will be presented on the other's stages, and, in the fall, Rumania will hold a Hungarian movie week.

The plan provides for an exchange of scientists, artists, writers, and artistic groups, and publication of their research, and experience gained in mass culture work. Rumania will hold a showing of Hungarian fine art, and Hungary will receive a collection of Rumanian folk art.

The agreement was signed by Jolan Majlat, secretary-general of the Hungarian Institute for Cultural Relations and Gheorghe Macavei, president of the Rumanian Institute for Cultural Relations.
